Introduction to the Association of Residential Communities (ARC)

The Association of Residential Communities (ARC) was established in 2008 to proactively support the volunteers/ members of Homeowners

Associations (HOAs) and Bodies Corporate, and their management teams in the achievement of their vision which is to establish, maintain and enhance the value of the properties as well as the lifestyles of their residents.

ARC's support services are aimed at all organised residential communities such as golf, lifestyle, wildlife, eco, equestrian, marina, retirement villages, leisure estates and cluster developments. ARC is a unique organisation which goes way beyond the traditional 'association' that is typically just a clearing house of information and a member listing, to one that engages with members, business partners and other stakeholders on a practical level and offers a wide range of support services, dynamic networking opportunities, access to best practices and provision of policies, procedures, tools and templates for the effective management and leadership of residential communities.

Research shows that there are over 3000 registered Homeowners Associations and over 56000 Sectional Title Schemes containing around 2 million properties in South Africa. Each of these is represented by a Homeowners Association (HOA) or Body Corporate, consisting of elected volunteers who are members of the HOA. It is also the responsibility of the HOA to put in place a management team to manage the estate/community. ARC believes that since 80% of HOAs share similar issues and challenges there is a great opportunity for increasing efficiencies through sharing information and collective networking.

Directors and trustees are normally elected because of their passion, commitment and willingness to serve as volunteers and not necessarily because of their expertise in residential estate affairs. These directors and trustees are seldom fully aware of best practice and experiences outside of their community. This inevitably affects the performance and effectiveness of these office bearers who have a responsibility to fulfil not only their legal obligations, but also to meet their member's aspirations and objectives. ARC exists to provide the support required for designated directors/trustees and estate management to provide good governance and effective management.

ARC is also the driving force for common interest community research and development and is committed to identifying trends in residential community living as well as to research and identify best practices. We aim to serve as the catalyst for positive change in the community association industry by making information available to our members.

ARC strives to adapt to change and we continually revisit our priorities, services and structure. We are committed not only to benchmarking SA best practice but also to benchmarking internationally. As ONE organisation, we strive to meet the needs of our members and the industry.

The Residential Community Industry

Industry research has shown that in South Africa:

- There are over 3 000 Homeowners Associations (HOAs)
- There are over 56 000 Sectional Title Schemes
- There are over 1.9 million homes in residential communities
- Over 5 million people currently reside in residential communities
- Organised communities occupy around 9% of developed land
- Property value in residential communities makes up 27% of total residential property
- The industry has in excess of R 800 billion assets under management

"The establishment of ARC is a logical and necessary step in the development of the multi-billion-rand residential estate industry and represents its coming of age. There is not a single estate in Southern Africa that will not substantially benefit from membership to ARC and their association's clear capacity to support every aspect of community living" Sean Wolfe Coote - past Chairperson, Eagle Canyon Golf Estate

Industry Partners

ARC's goal is to drive unification and representation of all Homeowners Associations and Bodies Corporate, as well as drive professionalism and best practice for all residential communities throughout South Africa. Through our services to members, project management, consulting services, professional memberships and with the partnerships we develop with our strategic business partners, ARC strives to create harmonious, safe, well maintained and financially sound communities that provide them with a quality of life that enhances their well-being and financial investment. Through the provision of strategic support and optimisation of estate leadership, ARC's mission is to enhance the lifestyle and property value of homeowners in organised residential communities.

ARC has established the following bodies to assist us in achieving our mission and objectives:

- The Residential Communities Council (RCC), managed by ARC, is governed by a Memorandum of Incorporation and functions through its network of regional working structures and a national decision-making forum. It has a set of defined objectives, functions and powers, aimed at establishing an effective consultative and representative industry body with the resources and mandate to act on the industry's behalf. The RCC will facilitate the process of industry consolidation and self-regulation in the ultimate interests of the individual HOA member. Membership to the council is through a levy determined by ARC.

- The Community Associations Institute of South Africa (CAISA), who provide training and education that culminates in qualifications and professional designations for community managers, service providers and directors who form part of the current membership. This is done through the Professional Management Development Programme (PMDP) and includes the Certified Manager of Community Associations (CMCA), Association Management Specialist (AMS) and Professional Community Association Manager (PCAM) qualifications, along with other designations.

ARC is represented on the following bodies:

- The World Congress of Community Association Management (TWCCAM), who brings an international focus to the profession of managing community associations, as well as establishing international standards of management excellence and developing international education criteria. Ultimately, TWCCAM provides a voice to universal ethical management values and is made up of members from the USA, Dubai, Australia, Spain, Canada and South Africa
- The International Foundation of Community Management Research (IRF) who conduct community management research across the globe and distribute the outcomes of this research to all members in each participating country.

ARC Business Partners

ARC understands that numerous industry trends exist that highlight the need to partner with best of breed service providers and to allow our members to have direct access to these business partners. These trends include:

- Community living continues to be a sought-after lifestyle
- Technology will continue to play a part in improving communication
- Energy management and associated issues will become more prevalent
- Communities are becoming eco-friendlier and socially aware

With the above being constantly top-of-mind, ARC offers best of breed companies to partner with us by providing ARC and the industry with education, best practice documents, publications and ongoing consultation to ARC and its members. In exchange for this, ARC allows its partners to attend and present at chapter meetings, sponsor our workshops and conferences. We will also facilitate introductions with our members.

ARC either has partners or is seeking partners in the following areas of service provision:

1. Legal, Compliance & Governance
2. Security
3. Environmental
4. Resource Management
5. Telecommunications & FTTH
6. Short-Term Insurance
7. Long-Term Insurance
8. Financial Service Providers
9. Maintenance & Infrastructure
10. Sport, Recreation & Lifestyle
11. Property Management & Administration
12. Industry Associations
13. Information technology
14. Media & Publications
15. Event Management
16. Resident Services

ARC understands that we cannot force our members to use the services of our business partners, but we do ask that members allow business partners to develop a relationship with them and the industry at large and that they be given the opportunity to present or quote on their products and services.

ARC Industry Initiatives

Legislation and Lobbying

ARC continuously monitors all new legislation and any applicable court judgments that impact on the Residential Community Industry, including those made by the Community Schemes Ombudsman Service. Where necessary, ARC will invite its members to make comment and will facilitate the required interventions in the best interests of the Industry.

Loyalty Programme

In partnership with Mahala, ARC has developed an affordable mobile solution to engage with home owners & tenants by bringing them rewards through existing service providers.

As an ARC member, you can access the platform for your estate. The loyalty & rewards platform is accessed by your members through an app/mobile platform or a physical card (the member's choice). The purpose of the project is to increase member spend within an estate through the estate's retailers & other services, thus creating an eco-system that rewards and attracts loyal behaviour.

The benefits of becoming a member of ARC

By joining ARC, you will find a friendly, accessible organisation which is the ideal forum to develop relationships, increase your knowledge and help shape the future of the nation's residential communities.
